Mike, I have a good news. I just finished your book. One time read. Want to read again to get points for my preaching to my congregation. Well written. I compared what is mentioned in the book and found the Holy Spirit had been dealing with my marriage to Mercy. I would boldly confess that lots of my personal understandings were corrected before and after marriage. God always not only made me to understand my wife, but also the necessity to live for Him day after day. I have requested Mercy to read the book also. There are valuable points which I could share with our people in our church. Thank you and God bless you.

Diane Y. says:

It is always good to read a book about love and marriage especially when looking through the lens of God's teaching. I was particularly challenged with the idea of writing a love letter or list to let your spouse know why s/he wants to be with you. It is almost revolutionary to always consider what your spouse wants rather than what you want or think you need. Of course, this is easier said than done. That is where we need the help of the Holy Spirit. So thank you Michael for pointing us to the example of Jesus Christ.
